

Why Punctuation Matters

Punctuation marks are the traffic signals in your writing – they indicate when to stop, when to start, when to pause, etc. If you get them wrong, you may find that you are giving your reader mixed signals. In all writing, but perhaps especially in grant writing, confusion and ambiguity are your enemies. Using correct punctuation will help you beat them!

